- Have you ever sat down in front of your computer and had total brain freeze on what to post that would get people to stop and pay attention to your business?
- Years ago, I discovered that coming up with great social media content was exhausting! I knew that if I was going to be successful with this form of marketing that I HAD to find a better way or I was going to burn both ends to the middle and ultimately fail.
- Bottom line, unless you can consistently create not just good but GREAT content, your competitors, the ones who DO have great content, will eat your lunch. It doesn't matter the market. It doesn't matter the niche. Eventually, you will fail. Why? Because Facebook is only rewarding those with GREAT content—content their fans are engaging with!
- Frustrating right? I totally get it! I have been there myself!
- What if there was a better way? What if you already knew WHAT types of content to post that your fans would love, wouldn't that be the bomb diggity?
